

Thami Moatshe's profile

I am privileged to serve as the Executive Head of the Localisation Support Fund (LSF), a non-profit company that was established to promote localisation in manufacturing by partnering with participants in the manufacturing ecosystem.

I have been serving in different organisations across multiple sectors for over 22 years. With experience and exposure in banking sectors, development finance, industrial/commercial, integrated chemicals and energy among others. My career journey has equipped me with a wealth of experience in managing diverse operations and leading multidisciplinary teams, making me a valuable asset in any forward-thinking, fast-growing environment.

I have exposure to both the private and public sectors, and more recently non-profit organisations. My strategic leadership abilities, coupled with a strong understanding of finance and strategy, have enabled me to excel in corporate finance, portfolio management, mergers and acquisitions, restructuring, and project management. I enjoy developing and executing strategies that drive growth and innovation, inspiring people to want to do more.

My proactive nature and dynamic approach have benefited the organisations I have served and positioned me as a valuable asset for any forward-thinking, fast-growing multinational company.

In addition to my role at LSF, I am actively involved in various boards as a Non-Executive Director, leveraging my expertise to contribute to their strategic direction and governance. Currently, I serve as the Chairperson of Ario MetaPower and as a Non-Executive Director of Naledi Ring-Rollers. I am also an Independent Councillor at the Payments Association of South Africa (PASA).

I am passionate about education and empowering future generations to excel. I have previously served as a Council Member of St Stithians College, where I also chaired its Thandulwazi Maths & Science Academy.

I am a Certified Director by IoD (SA) and hold myself to the highest standards of corporate governance.
